3. Method of library automation using Integrated Library Management System

With the use of barcoding software, LMS automation entails a number of procedures for information feeding, searching (OPAC), report production, and book issue/return/exchange.

The add/edit portion had to input preliminary data into the system. Series, department, subject, source, publisher, seller, kind, book status, course, location, and stock searches are all available in the search catalogue along with a report for reading materials. With this technology, it is possible to print out the reports and verify the availability of all the reading materials in the library online. Book circulation includes system updates for issues, returns, and renewals.

The learner is initially prompted to provide his personal data. Students may issue three books for the remainder of the week in order to simplify the exchange of books. All of the student's information is opened in this system after scanning the barcode of the books that were distributed to the pupils.

Modules features of Biyani/ Vmedulife software

- ✓ Barcode enabled Issue return
- ✓ Cataloging
- ✓ OPAC (Online Public Access Catalogue)
